THE ALBERTA LAW SOCIETY AND ALEXANDER KNOX IN THE COURT EN BANC.

Action at the instance of the Law Society of Alberta to have Alexander Knox, Barrister and Solicitor of Wetaskiwin struck from the Roll of Barristers in the Province was moved at the opening of the sittings of the Court of Queen's Bench now being held at Calgary. Mr. Clark, K.C., on behalf of the defendant Knox, said that the case would be sent to the end of the roll of cases, which would be done as soon as possible, that at the sittings of the Court, he had held at Calgary last June a commission was granted to take evidence in Aberdeen and Edinburgh, Scotland of the professional misconduct of Knox in Scotland. That evidence was taken recently and the report of the commission extending to 200 pages of evidence has now been returned and will be laid before the Court. Owing to the present busyness before the court it is understood that the case, which will occupy a considerable amount of time, will not be opened at these sittings and will have to stand over until the next sittings of the Court which will be held at Edmonton three months hence when it will be placed at the beginning of the roll of cases and finally disposed of.

DANCING ACADEMY

Professor C. S. Robinson will open a school for dancing at Angus Hall on January 1st. Professor Robinson is a dancer who has been formed. Prof. Robinson uses the latest and most modern methods and has always given satisfaction to the best class of people. He has the largest and finest Academy in Canada. But owing to his connection with the city, he is able to obtain students from all parts of the city and attend classes at Red Deer, Lacombe and Wetaskiwin. And there is no reason why the people of this City should not take advantage of this opportunity.

HOCKEY NOTES

It is expected that a hockey game will be played in the city on Christmas Day. If the local boys are not called upon to play a league game out of the city that day, and no league game is scheduled, arrangements will be made to bring down the fast Maple Leaf of South Edmonton.

The Wetaskiwin Crystals have decided to meet the Battle River team here. The other teams in the league will be Gansars, Killam, Hardisty and possibly Strone. The league was organized at a meeting held in Killam last evening, and we expect to announce the schedule of games next week.

Weather permitting, there will be skating at the rink on the afternoon of Christmas Day, when the band will be in attendance.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Debate between Camrose and Wetaskiwin High School teams was held in the Angus Theatre, last Friday Evening. There was a large crowd in the theatre. The teams of Mr. Fowler and Henry of Camrose and Misses James and Casey of Wetaskiwin did remarkably well and were heartily endorsed. The Judge, after mature deliberation decided that the result was in Camrose's favor by a small margin.

The Christmas Examinations are going on at the High School. The 11th Street girls are giving great attraction. 6 & 12th Students, some 5 or 6 hockey teams have been organized among them being a couple, for girls.

Schools close on Tuesday 23rd and will open on the 5th of January.

75 PER CENT ALTA. GRAIN IS REPORTED TO BE MARKETED

Calgary, Dec. 17.—Figures showing the amount of grain moved on the Alberta division of the general super-intendent here.

The statistics show that 15,893 cars of grain had been moved east during this period as compared with 11,893 cars for the same period last year, or an increase of 55 per cent.

Of this number 9,147 cars were wheat compared with 6,008 cars of wheat last year, again an increase of 50 per cent.

Careful estimates at the Calmar grain exchange indicates that the grain market will be up 50 per cent on the Alberta grain crop that has already been marketed.

It is said that not more than 25 per cent remains in the farmer's hands and that ten per cent will be needed for seed, leaving only fifteen per cent of the crop to be marketed.

Calgary, Dec. 16.—Fifteen deaths constituted the total number of fatal injuries in the 1913 season according to the figures compiled and published today. The reports show that the greatest death toll was in Chicago, where three persons were killed by pitched balls. Twenty of the victims were killed by being hit on the head with a ball, either in the course of a game or in the course of a game of baseball.

Four tips were responsible for the other three deaths. The reports point out that all the players killed were unskilled in the game and that none of the major league players received fatal injuries.

Calgary, Dec. 11.—Married men, or those who have been married, will be given preference in the matter of municipal employment according to a decision arrived at by the mayor and commissioners today.

PREMIER SCOTT'S DIP.
How the Saskatchewan Legislator Hit
the Air Whirlpool.

Higher and higher soared the bi-plane like some gigantic bird. The woman with the lever in her hand smiled happily. Her hair was over her shoulder and fast up in the air. The rather heavy set, elderly man passenger who had craved thrills in an airship sat tightly, as he had been told, with his hands clasped behind his head. He inwardly hoped that this outward appearance indicated a real enjoyment of the sensation of flying.
For a moment the old man averted his eyes from the slight, lishy figure of the woman before him. How cleverly
she managed the great, jolting machine!
One false move and the machine
would smash to pieces.

The man's reflections ceased abruptly. He became suddenly obsessed with the idea that something out of the ordinary had happened. The elderly man was forever brooding.

The young woman at the lever held his life in her hands. Surely the smile on the face of the golden-haired aviatron was not to be believed, as ever she looked, her blue eyes seemed to become keener, her slight form more alert. Her trim-gloved hands moved quickly, her lever moved smoothly, and the machine was soaring far above the clouds, far as the ship seemed to be swinging around. The air currents changed.
The man gasped again. It was now evident that something really was happening. The ship was surely turning around, now slowly, now faster, again and again. The man passenger who had wanted thrills was getting them.

"Are you frightened?" asked the woman at the levers.

"No, n-o-o-t at all," gasped the man as he was suddenly whirled faster and faster through the air.

Down, down, around and around,
down again, even circling, swiftness and swiftness won the machine, while the man and girl "got" into space with these keen blue eyes that are unfathomable and amazin.

At last, after some little while, did this woman speak of the matter with the other woman right say the dropped a biting smile.

"I'll rest for a few moments and think it over. I feel a bit dizzy," said the man.

"Was it any wonder?"

It was not. It was Premier Walter Scott, of Saskatchewan, Canada, and the woman who whirled him from the skies in a $6,500 Wright biplane and brought him back to earth in a tiny daring woman aviator in the world.

"There was really nothing to be afraid of. I enjoyed the ride very much, and telling of the experience will do to do was to keep the machine under control. Hat it once got to going too fast in that mad wild air, and I had to bring it down to a standstill. The secret of safety in the spiral dip is to pull up slowly enough to get out without any sudden changes. It is perfectly safe," she explained. "Al-inclined plane upon which he had great

Bottle in Rain Barrel.

Some very funny hiding places have been found by the provincial police in Northern Ontario for the "bottle cache" of whisky, pipes, butcher meat, and cartridges. In Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, the police have just had one of the cleverest concealments revealed to them.

When Superintendent of the provincial police, in Gwangananda a little while ago, issued orders that one J. Cohen, who was suspected, must be apprehended. As it was useless to have him here he sent word to the police that Cohen always went out the back door for the liquor. On a recent Wednesday night the constable concealed himself in the rear of the shop and waited for him to come out. The night passed off, and one after another the early hours came and went, leaving the constable disbelieving, but still determined to find the culprit. At about half an hour in the morning Cohen issued from the back door, and, going to the rain barrel lifted out a bottle.

He then took out of the ticket
in which he had been hiding and arrested the man. The next day in court
Cohen was fined $200 and costs.

Reindeer Encountered.

The Department of the Interior has recent word that nearly all of the reindeer which recently escaped from the Government corral on the Great Slave River, North West Territories, have been captured. No trace has been seen as yet, however, of the herd which escaped earlier in the summer.

Three captured reindeer were enabled the Government to continue its breeding program last year as to the feasibility of breeding reindeer in the west for domestic purposes, but the long time required to bring the herd to the desired proportion for determining whether or not the scheme will prove of practical economy and benefit.

British Arrivals Predominate.

Figures issued by the superintendent of immigration to Canada during the first six months of April showed that 307,367. Of the new arrivals 121,204 were British, 72,880 American, and 113,183 from other countries.
During the same period of the previous year the total number was 273,649, composed of 108,321 British, 69,659
American, and 76,659 from all other countries. The increase is 12 per cent.

Skin diseases are variable due to bad or impure blood, and while not necessarily attended with fatal results are nevertheless very distressing to the

are from a slight lishy figure

THE HINDU IN CANADA

Recent developments on the Pacific

Deputation from Western Farmers Have Conference With Government at Ottawa

Strong Memorial Is Prepared in Support of Elimination of Duty on Wheat Want Free Trade With Britain.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—The speech-making in support of the resolutions and motion presented by the representatives of the Dominion council of agriculture occupied the attention of Premier Borden and his colleagues from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Premier Borden in his reply touched briefly upon each of the topics introduced by the delegation, and in every case the members of the delegations who received the serious consideration which was undoubtedly due to them. They would receive careful consideration insofar as they came within the scope of legislation which it was within the right of the federal government to pass.

Taking up first the request that staple markets should not be established under present conditions, Mr. Borden said that the main argument of the delegation was that the farmers and commerce were to take this matter under review and give it its personal attention. "In the question of apportioning a claim agent to settle disputes, he said he was not sure whether it was the idea of the delegation to have a man sent to Ottawa to represent the interests of the farmers in cases of dispute. Mr. Henders having replied that such was the purpose of the recommendation, Mr. Borden said it would be considered.

"So far as freight rates are concerned," he said, "you will recognize that there are difficulties so far as control is concerned. Railways may be brought under parliamentary or commercial control, but we must have steamships to other countries the question of control is fraught with difficulty and required concerted action." He added that something had been done by the government during the past summer and that the imperial government had suggested a plan of securing information in regard to this important question. The suggestion had been adopted by the government and would be acted upon.

Mr. Borden expressed his sympathy with the cooperative movement which he thought was desirable. He had been very much impressed with the arguments advanced and the proposal would receive the best consideration of the government.

Mr. Borden's announcement, he said, would in all probability be dealt with at the coming session of parliament, when the existing laws would be consolidated and revised. Then the recommendations made would be given consideration.

"The fiscal question," said the premier, "has involved a very wide range of suggestions. As you know, however, so far as the tariff is concerned, the main point of contention can be met before the proper tribunal now."

Mr. Borden remarked that the questions of the high cost of living and the depopulation of the rural districts were no concern to the Borden government and his colleagues had not yet got up upon this point by saying that it would be dealt with by the legislature already decided upon.

The demand for legislation to facilitate the system of cooperation already started in Saskatchewan, in the matter of grain elevators, was set forth by Mr. Green, Moose Jaw, in a speech that was intensely listened to. Mr. Green pointed out that the extension of the movement in Saskatchewan had resulted in the establishment of 200 elevators while the organization had a credit with the banks amounting to $3,000,000.

Mr. Green further explained that what the farmers wanted was a cheap and simple system of cooperation under federal regulation.

The necessity of government intervention to correct the exactation of exorbitant freight rates, both on the lakes and the ocean was urged by President Henders.

He next introduced the subject of the tariff. What the grain growers wanted, he declared, was a moderate reduction in the duty on British goods by 50 per cent, with a gradual reduction until at the end of five years there would be absolute free trade with the mother country. It was also desired that the Canadian duty on wheat be reduced to 10 per cent. This would give Canadian farmers the freedom of the American market at present denied to them under the countervailing duty of the Underwood tariff.

Mr. E. C. Drury of the Ontario Grange left with the high cost of living which he attributed to the scarcity of certain articles of food due to the decrease of the farming population and consequent lessened production.

Mr. Burrell said if there was not a scarcity of labor.

"Undoubtedly," replied Mr. Drury, "I remember in the early nineties that my father got first-rate farm labor at about $16 a month and board. Today the rate is about $30 a month for an inferior class of labor, because the farm hands of the nineties were mostly Ontario farmers' sons."

To a query by the minister, Mr. Drury said he considered the minister as to which the farmer labored under was due to the tariff.

"How does that view square with the fact that the tariff has been changed since the early nineties?"

Mr. Drury's reply was to the effect that the causes of the change were cumulative. The proportion of urban to rural population had enormously increased.

"Free food would be a step in the right direction, but I don't believe it would appreciably reduce the cost of living. The solution of that problem is to get the people back to the land and the way to do that is to lower the tariffs and to make it less burdensome to operate," declared Mr. Drury.

In a question by the member, Mr. Drury argued that it was the unprofitable industries such as the manufacturers of cream separators and binder twine, which showed increase in the number of employees, and not the profitless industries.

Mr. McFiewing, Wellington, gave it as his opinion that the primary cause of rural depopulation was the small return to the farmer. Farmers' sons were leaving the land for the professions because the remuneration was better.

A lesson in the benefit of free markets to the farmer has been just given in the operation of the Underwood tariff. The demand for Canadian cattle had swept the country of everything available that stood up. The farmer wanted free markets for what he had to sell. This would give better financial returns to the farmer and enable him to get cheaper labor.

Mr. J. S. Wood of the Manitoba

economic questions so wide in their application as to be impossible of solution by parliamentary enactment." When the grain growers' delegation had duly gathered in the prime minister's room there came a Mr. Smith of Winona, Ont., heading a delegation of Ontario fruit dealers and growers asking to be heard. Mr. Borden observed that he had expected they might be present to hear the grain growers' representatives without taking part in the discussion, and that subsequently the fruit growers' case was sufficiently the fruit growers' case as grain growers might remain as auditors if they chose.

The first subject touched upon was that of a sample market, which had been placed upon the list of protest by the government during the past summer and that the imperial government had suggested a plan of securing information in regard to this important question. The suggestion had been adopted by the government and would be acted upon.

Mr. Green said that while much had been done it was a fact that the grade still did not reach the consumer at the same grade it left the farmer. This after it had passed through intermediate elevators.

Mr. Holt Rogers questioned this. He ventured the assertion that Mr. Green would be unable to establish any such contention.

Mr. Green admitted it might be difficult to get proof, but still he had seen a standard sample of No. 1 wheat in Montreal which would grade No. 2 in the west.

The premier wanted to know to what the grain growers attributed this deterioration of grades between point of production and export.

Mr. Green was not prepared to give definite answers, but in reply to the minister of trade and commerce, admitted that the quarrel was with the grain board.

Next Mr. Henders referred to the matter of inspection of wheat. He said no country had been able to exist upon this point by saying that it would be dealt with by the legislature already decided upon.

The demand for legislation to facilitate the system of cooperation already started in Saskatchewan, in the matter of grain elevators, was set forth by Mr. Green, Moose Jaw, in a speech that was intensely listened to. Mr. Green pointed out that the extension of the movement in Saskatchewan had resulted in the establishment of 200 elevators while the organization had a credit with the banks amounting to $3,000,000.

The demand for Canadian cattle had swept the country of everything available that stood up. The farmer wanted free markets for what he had to sell. This would give better financial returns to the farmer and enable him to get cheaper labor.

Mr. J. S. Wood of the Manitoba

Grain Growers association declared that the farmer would not stand for any more increase of protection. There was a limit to the farmer's endurance in this respect. People talked about the prosperity of the west, said Mr. Woods, but it was largely a myth.

There was not a sufficient margin of profit. The cost of production was too close to the cash yield.

Still the difference in the price given to the farmer for cattle and the price charged to the consumer for beef was abnormal. Sirion steel cost 75 cents a pound, while the cost of grain was 10 cents a pound. The difference in the price of wheat in Canada and the states, the fact was that the price was higher in Canada, only at times when there happened to be little or no wheat in this country.

Mr. Woods said he had always been interested in the welfare of the farmers of the United States. It would benefit the western farmer a great deal, more particularly free trade in wheat, barley and potatoes. The fluctuations in the price of potatoes, he said, was principally due to the limited home market. You were to do is to give us the market and the farmers will try to supply it."

President Good, of the Ontario

farmers, who followed, said that the hardships of farm life were due largely to the fiscal policy. Everything possible should be done, he said, to relieve the burden of the farmer imposed as a result of the tariff. Increasing the tariff on the lumber industry would be a tax on the business, he said, and the business pays $10,000,000 per annum for tariff taxes or about ten times as much as he has recently voted by parliament for the encouragement of agriculture.

E. Carswell, Red Deer, who was the last speaker, said that on behalf of the farmers of Alberta, he desired to send all that had been said. Under existing conditions, he said, it was impossible to keep the young people on the farm. Referring to the tariff Mr. Carswell said that it was the farmer who, in the end, always paid the duty. If the purchasing power of the farmer was increased he said, it would be better for the manufacturer and everybody else.

BERNARDO'S MONSTER.

In the Boboli garden at Florence, some days ago, a specimen of the famous Medici garden, was still crushed in a stone and stucco called the "Appennino," once the glory of the famous Medici garden. Some sixty or seventy years ago the statue was more talked of than seen, but now it is almost forgotten. Few know or care for such things, it is a good specimen of its style, and a reminder of its existence is just as well. Its height, if erect, would be about 100 feet, or say 30 yards, the figure being seated on a large rock. At the back one can enter into rustic boulders built into its interior, and from underneath the head of the head a cascade may be made to flow forth at will over the shoulders and body of the colossus, creating a sparkling effect in the sunshines.

Buonaiuti, the protege of Cosimo de Medici, who schemed this gigantic thing in 1560, employed the best talents available for the setting of it up, sculptors, masons, etc., who we are told had to be paid in gold. It is said that one of the artists lost all sense of proportion and became rendering unfit for ordinary work, one of them losing his reason as a consequence of helping to build the statue.

The originality of the conception is worth the great genius, which, under the eye of Michelangelo, hesitated at nothing, knowing that the Medici statue was at his back and he himself safe when a daring idea of his needed to be put into effect.

This famous boy Bernardo (Buonaiuti) seems in his day to have outshone the admirable Crichton, being painter, sculptor, architect, engineer and mechanician and much besides—London Sphere.

Morphine a Pain Producer.

"Morphine," says a woman who was a morphine dead and then saved herself, "does not give pleasure. It creates pain. This is its ultimate and permanent effect. This plant is used to assist in the production of a narcotic form of anaesthesia. The exhilarating effect is the first thrill of pain, vibrating so rapidly one does not recognize it as such. Let that be written in letters as tall as the sky." Morphine, she adds, is a pain-destroyer. It weakens the will, it disrupts the foundations of the mind.—American Magazine.

Made an Enemy.

"Have you ever placed yourself in the care of a healthy doctor, Mrs. Murphy?"

"Why do you ask me that?"

"My husband wants me to go at once."

"Yes, I have been taking regular treatment for me for the past year."

"Then I think I'll do it. It seems to be useless."—San Francisco Call.
